Cardinals Win With Ease From Dodgers

Every Indication
They Will Play
In World Series

By Joe Reichler
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

More than ever today it looks like the St. Louis Cardinals will be the Boston Red Sox' world series opponent next month.

Not so much because the Cards beat the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday in the opener of their "fight for the flag" three-game series to increase their National league margin to two and a half games, but because of the easy manner in which they bowled over the flock. The score was 10-2.

It was absolutely no contest. In fact, the game was over barely five minutes after it started. Kirby Higbe, the Dodgers' ace right-hander and possessor of the best won and lost record in the league, retired the first two batters to face him, but then the roof caved in over his head. Stan Musial doubled, Enos Slaughter walked, Whitey Kurovski and Dick Sisler singled and Rookie Catcher Joe Garagiola homered to make it 5-0 for St. Louis before Howie Pollet, who was to gain his 19th triumph, made his first pitch.

Victory No. 14

The victory was number 14 for the Cards in 20 meetings with the Dodgers. Manager Eddie Dyer plans to give big George Munneg, who rejoined the club last month after two years in the army, a chance to seek his third straight win today. He will be opposed by left-hander Joe Hatten, who owns two victories over the Cards.

The pennant-bound Red Sox failed again to clinch the American league flag when they owed to Bobby Feller and the Cleveland Indians 4-1. It was the sixth straight defeat for Joe Cronin's frustrated nine which needs a victory plus a Detroit defeat to cop the championship.

Feller held the Sox to eight hits and struck out seven batters to boost his season's total to 308. The Tigers moved two games in front in their battle with the Yankees for second place by defeating the New Yorkers 6-4 in Detroit.

Chicago Game Postponed

The Chicago Cubs earned a split with the Phillies in a double-header in Philadelphia, winning the second game 5-4 in 11 innings after the Phils had come from behind to cop the opener 4-3.

After losing 1-0 to Pittsburgh, the Boston Braves edged out the Pirates 2-1 in the second game of a double bill.

A six-run eighth inning gave the Washington Senators a 9-6 victory over the Browns under the lights in St. Louis.

Rookie Monte Kennedy yielded only two hits in pitching the National league cellar-dwelling New York Giants to a 4-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Cold weather in Chicago forced the postponement of the White Sox-Philadelphia Athletics game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
SPRINGFIELD, N. J., Sept. 13—(AP)—Fred Corcoran, who temporarily turned "amateur" yesterday to watch the national tourney at Baltusrol, picks Ted Bishop as the outstanding golfer of the four who reached the semi-finals. That isn't just a plug; Ted was a pro for a while but he was reinstated years ago. Some of the folks around here are calling Smiley Quick a "typical public link golfer" because of the way he scrambles for his pars and birdies, but that's not the way Smiley sees it. The kind of guy who can take time out during an important match to give the hand hand to some one from his home town, Centralia, Ill.

Quote, Unquote
When Ex-champion Bud Ward was doing a little excusable grousing after he had been eliminated by Denver's Babe Lind yesterday, he remarked: "I can't understand Ward's taking it that way; after all, it was only a golf match." ... Lind found out in the afternoon.

Spots Before Your Eyes
Frank Strafaci, who didn't qualify for the national championship but qualified as the original Dodger fan, spent most of the afternoon in the press room checking up on what was happening to them. Bums. ... Frank even has gone so far as to have his caddie carry a radio so he can listen to Brooklyn games during a match. ... And what became of that "Youth Movement" the youngest survivor is Bob Willits of Kansas City.

Quite A Feet
Bo McMullin, Indiana football coach, isn't exactly superstitious, but this fall he's wearing the same pair of golf shoes he wore every day last fall when his Roosters were en route to the Big Ten championship. ... Bo just doesn't want to provide an opportunity for rival coaches who would like to be in McMullin's shoes.

America Continues to Oppose Soviet Campaign

By Glenn Babb
AP Foreign News Analyst

For the second time in less than a month the United States has served emphatic notice of her intention to have a hand in shaping the post-war settlement in the eastern Mediterranean. The proposal tossed into the Paris peace conference yesterday (Wed.) by Ambassador Caffery for demilitarization of Bulgaria's southern border is another expression of the policy which dictated last month's notice to Moscow that Washington backed Turkey's rejection of Russian demands for domination of the Dardanelles.

The Caffery proposal is hardly less significant than the Dardanelles note. Both in effect state American opposition to the Soviet campaign of expansion in the Middle East. Together they constitute vigorous affirmation of a determination to support the two nations which stand as semi-isolated barriers to the advancing Soviet glacier, Turkey and Greece. They are to be read against the background of two demonstrations in the eastern Mediterranean in recent months, the visit of the Battleship Missouri to Turkey in the spring and the current cruise of the Aircraft Carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt in Greek and other eastern waters.

Persistent Claims
The Bulgarian territorial claims on Greece have been the most persistent and potentially most dangerous phase of the campaign carried on by the Soviet's Balkan satellites, both at Paris and in New York to foment trouble for Greece and the western Allies. The Bulgarians, reviving century old claims which Russia has supported frequently in the past, is demanding cession of western Thrace, Greece's easternmost territory at the head of the Aegean. Such a transfer would split Greece from her one friendly neighbor, Turkey, and bring Bulgaria—and the Soviet sphere of domination—to the Aegean. Strategically and politically that would be almost as great an advance for the Soviet bloc as control of the Turkish straits.

Caustic Statement
Ambassador Caffery's caustic statement put it this way: "This hardly seems the place for Bulgaria, after abetting the invasion and after the ruthless occupation and exploitation of this area (western Thrace), to lay claim in its peace settlement with the victorious powers to an important piece of territory to be taken from one of them."

Instead of satisfying Bulgarian demands the United States proposed to restrict Bulgaria's power to harm the neighbor with whom she has gone to war three times in this century by demilitarization of the Bulgarian side of the border.

The Soviet's other Balkan satellites, Yugoslavia and Albania, are carrying on similar and complementing campaigns in the war of nerves and propaganda against Greece. Albania is claiming territory and supporting the Ukrainian attack in carrying on propaganda for a "Macedonian Federation" which would take a bite out of northeastern Greece, including Salonika and most of what would be left along the northern Aegean if Bulgaria got western Thrace. The proposed federation would be under Tito's—and Moscow's—tutelage, to say the least.

Affects Internal Situation
This constant pressure from her neighbors, reinforced by the clamor or echoing from the sounding boards of Paris and Lake Success, could not fail to affect Greece's internal situation. Again the strife between right and left is rising toward the tempo of civil war, which might hold the seeds of larger conflict, since the division follows the alignment of that between the two groups of great powers. King George preparing to return from exile to his throne, did not exaggerate when he said in his proclamation of last night: "International complications have drawn Greece into the vortex of great conflicts which today make this task of national unity x x x a question x x x of self-preservation itself. The tranquility of Greece, indeed the peace of the world to a great extent depend on this."

The Doctor Says

Balanced General Diet Best For Age
By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

As we grow older, our thoughts turn to those things which will maintain our efficiency and if possible prolong our lives; there is little hope of life prolongation through special diet, although premature death may be prevented by avoiding dietary extremes (overweight).

The diet of aged persons should be the same as that of children except for energy foods. A well-balanced menu containing meat, fish, eggs, cheese, milk and dairy products, vegetables and fruits and limited amounts of energy foods is indicated. Too often the elderly try to maintain themselves by eating too much bread, cookies, pies, cakes and foods prepared from cereal grains because they are relatively less expensive.

Meat Isn't Barred
Is meat harmful for the aged? If elderly men or women have good teeth they can eat any kind of meat which does not distress them and they can eat as much meat as they did in the prime of life. The idea that meat is harmful to the aged was based upon an erroneous concept of its effect upon the kidney. It is apparent now that the warning to eat less meat may have been a scheme concocted by some miserly fellow who had to feed his mother-in-law and wanted to cut the cost.

Continuation is not necessarily an accompaniment of advancing years, as it is just as frequent in the young who have poor dietary habits. Simple constipation can be relieved by stopping cathartics, mineral oil and enemias, eating two or more dishes of cooked fruits each day, two to four servings of cooked vegetables, drinking a reasonable amount of water including a glass after arising in the morning, and taking some regular form of exercise, such as walking a certain distance each day.

Excessive weight in the aged is a handicap to getting around and simple weight reduction is indicated. Better still would be to maintain the weight 10 to 20 pounds below average after the age of 45 or 50, as life expectancy tables show the longest life in underweights.

Food Fads Are Futile
If large quantities of food distress aged persons, small amounts at frequent intervals should be tried. Tendency to gas formation can be eliminated by thoroughly masticating the food and avoiding gas producing foods.

Many elderly persons suffer with mild diabetes which makes them ill. Elderly persons have a tendency to be food faddists and they may try this food or that with the hope of getting a miraculous result. There is no miraculous food and reliance should be placed on a QUESTION: I am a young man and have arthritis of the spine. Is this common at my age, and what is its cause?

ANSWER: Arthritis of the spine is fairly common in young men. The cause is the same as arthritis elsewhere in the body. Arthritis of the spine tends to be self-limited but it may leave a stiff back.

Kansas Bill to Change Marriage Law

TOPEKA, Sept. 13.—(P)—A bill calling for a three-day waiting period in the issuance of marriage licenses in Kansas is expected to be presented to the legislative council today by its judiciary committee.

Rep. Richard L. Becker, Coffeyville, said the proposal would require applications for marriage licenses to be made three days before the licenses are issued. District judges would be permitted, however, to waive the waiting period in emergencies.

There are approximately 11-12,000,000 orphans and half-orphans in Europe today.

Maine had a total of 127,000 milch cows on its farms during 1944.

Tempers Flare In Conference

By A. I. Goldberg
PARIS, Sept. 13.—(P)—Tempers flared in two peace conference commissions considering the Balkan questions today and the Bulgarian political and territorial group broke up in disorder.
A. V. Alexander, first lord of the British admiralty, walked out of the military commission just before a 15 to 4 vote to invite Albania's representative to make an unrestricted statement on Italian provisions of the military treaty. Alexander had argued the Albanians should be given only 30 minutes.
In the Bulgarian political and territorial commission, the delegates of the Slav bloc and the western states split on a British proposal to vote immediately on a Greek demand for border changes. Finally Kouzma Kisselev of White Russia, the presiding officer, declared the meeting adjourned. He said the Greek demands were too complicated for immediate action. Western delegates protested vainly.

Truck Strike Eases Further

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—(P)—The trucking tie-up in the New York metropolitan area eased still further today, but a teamsters union official said the strike would continue at least through tomorrow.
Michael J. Cashed, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL), said as he left a meeting with truck operators:
"There won't be any developments for at least two days because we will be negotiating today and tomorrow."
Cashed added that the negotiations might take even longer.
Union members yesterday, for the first time in the 13-day strike, authorized their officers to negotiate with the truck operators. Both sides met last night with Mayor William O'Dwyer and a spokesman for both operators and the union said progress had been made.
Enters Trade Agreement
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(P)—Paraguay today became the 29th nation to enter into a reciprocal trade agreement with the United States.

Not Time to Stop Relief

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(P)—The state department took the stand today that to stop UNRRA relief shipments in retaliation for Yugoslavia's shooting down of American planes "would place us in the position of dishonoring our international commitments."
Undersecretary Will L. Clayton, acting chief in the absence of Secretary Byrnes, made known in a statement the department's decision that the shipments should continue.
About the time his announcement was issued last night, department press officers confirmed in response to reporters' inquiries that the United States apologized for the action of two youths who threw stones at the Yugoslav embassy a month ago.
The incident occurred after disclosure that Yugoslav airmen had shot down an unarmed American transport plane, killing all five aboard.

Henhouse Bedlam
CHESTER, Ill., Sept. 13.—(P)—Miss Marie Marlen got out of bed and went to her chicken house to find out the reason for the clucking and crowing in the middle of the night.

State May Quarantine

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 13.—(P)—State Veterinarian H. E. Curry has been assured by Attorney General J. E. Taylor that he has the power to quarantine chickens infected with Newcastle disease, an infectious disease that decimates poultry flocks.
Curry wrote that symptoms of the disease had been found in baby chicks shipped from Missouri commercial hatcheries. He sought legal advice before proceeding with control measures.
In an opinion by Assistant Attorney General C. B. Burns, Jr., Curry was advised that the government also has the power to quarantine areas in which the disease is discovered, but there is no legal authority for a state authority to order the slaughter of infected chickens.

Frances Perkins Back to Washington

Floating Diplomat:

In War and Peace, the SS Gripsholm Sails Serenely in Troubled Waters

Immune to war, immune to strikes: The Gripsholm sails from New York unaided during maritime strike. The ship sails alone and with lights ablaze during the war. The tug at right stood by in case the liner got into trouble, but it wasn't needed.

By S. Burton Heath
NEW YORK (NEA)—Through-out World War II, while most ships sneaked through the sea in anonymous gray paint, with radios silenced and lights blacked out, the white hulled liner Gripsholm blazed her way blatantly around the world as though her officers didn't know a war was going on.
With the same nonchalance, she backed her way out of a pier into the Hudson river the other day, without benefit of tugs or longshoremen, and stood out to sea while countless other ships lay idle at docksides or anchorage in the grip of a maritime strike.

Except for the fact that her officers wrestled with moving lines and her passengers wrestled with their own baggage, her sailing was as serene as her voyages into war, in which she never had as much as a phony scare while her stealthy sisters were being sunk or having hair-breadth escapes.

The Gripsholm spent much of the war under charter from the Swedish-American line, to the United States government as an exchange ship. As such enjoyed a diplomatic immunity that Capt. Sigfrid Ericson says, the Germans respected absolutely. Whether or not by design, the Japs weren't subjected to temptation. The Gripsholm met them no closer to Nippon than the west coast of India.

Combing memory and diaries for interesting episodes of that war year, Captain Ericson finally concluded that they were few, innocuous and far between.

There was the American aboard the Tao Maru, homeward bound from a Jap internment camp, who was so overjoyed at seeing the Gripsholm enter Mormogah harbor, Portuguese India, that he fell off a winch and broke his arm.
There was the sitdown crew strike at Mormogah because onebody—Captain Ericson never learned whether the Portuguese or the British—wouldn't let sailors from his neutral ship go ashore in that neutral port.

"But," the captain hastened to explain, "it wasn't the crew members serving our passengers who struck. It was deck and engine room men, many of them temporary hands we had picked up in New York and let go as soon as we got back. The stewards and waiters were loyal and stuck to their jobs."

Also there was a 45-day race with the stork, which the Gripsholm won by two hours. A doctor, his wife and five children had spent more than a year in a Jap prison camp. Dr. Ericson promised to do his best to see that the sixth baby was born ashore in the States.

"The mother said she didn't care, now that she was away from the Japs. She wasn't worried, but I got her to Jersey City in time. We had an ambulance waiting, and two hours after she reached the hospital the baby was born."

East-West Contrast
That was the only American baby born on any of the exchange trips, so far as the captain can remember, but several were born to prosperous, healthy Japanese women being returned to the empire they thought, then, would win the war.

More than any single incident, the captain and his officers were impressed by the general condition which Chief Engineer G. Svenson remarked on their first exchange with the Japs, at Lorenzo Marques, Portuguese East Africa.

"I'll never forget the contrast between the fat, happy, well-dressed Japs we carried out here, the United States, where they had been living on the best of everything, and the dirty, ragged, hungry-looking Americans who had been brought from Japanese prison camps for return to the States," he says.

In all, the Gripsholm made 10 exchange trips, at first handling diplomatic personnel and civilians, and later service men being exchanged. There were two to Portuguese India, one to Portuguese East Africa, and trips to Lisbon, Barcelona, Marseilles and other neutral ports. She was under U. S. charter, but acted in behalf of all the Allies.

From North Africa she picked up a Nazi general, whom she exchanged at Barcelona for a British general. The Nazi was polite and restrained, made one courtesy call on the captain, but otherwise kept entirely to himself.

A Siamese Prince and Princess were among 18 Thai returned on Captain Ericson's first diplomatic trip, and Ambassador and Mrs. Greu came back with him. At Barcelona he took aboard some Indian seamen who insisted on carrying their new shoes slung around their necks and going barefoot.

Daylight Raids In Palestine

JAFFA, Palestine, Sept. 13.—(P)—Armed bands, who police said were believed to be Jewish stern gangsters, robbed the Jaffa and Tel Aviv Ottoman banks in two during daylight raids today.

A dozen men walked into the Tel Aviv bank flourishing pistols and tommyguns, scooped up $1500 ($6,000) in cash and then disappeared on foot.

In the Ara city of Jaffa, a similar band ran about Arab civilians and the gunfire of Palestine police. Two Arab civilians were killed, one Arab temporary police officer was critically wounded, six Jews were arrested and all of the $500 ($2,000) loot was recovered.

The attack was accompanied by at least one diversionary oil bomb explosion and a barrage of machine gun fire from a moving automobile at the scene. David Douglas Duncan, photographer for Life Magazine, witnessed the incident. He expressed belief at least three civilians were killed by bullets from the automobile.

British military authorities declared a complete curfew in Jaffa and Tel Aviv and started road checks throughout Palestine.

No Knowledge of Meeting
WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(P)—President's Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today he had not heard of any prospective meeting of President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee of Britain and Generalissimo Stalin of Russia.

He made that response to a question as to whether "an impending big three meeting" is responsible for the "President's wariness in making campaign commitments."

Gen. Pershing Is 86 Today

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(P)—Gen. John J. Pershing is 86 today and an old artilleryman who helped him whip the Germans in 1918 has a date to say, "Happy Birthday."

Pershing, retired with the rank of General of the Armies, has lived at the army's Walter Reed hospital here since he suffered a severe illness in 1938.

Maj. Gen. S. U. Marietta, his personal physician, said Pershing's "health is satisfactory for a man 86 years old."

Pershing has an apartment at Walter Reed and usually is up daily, but uses a wheel chair to get about.

Just Too Many John Smiths

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13.—(P)—A lot of John Smiths with no middle initial are giving the Veterans Administration a lot of trouble.

And the one from North Carolina who uses J. for his middle letter isn't helping the situation any.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans administrator, reviewed the problem yesterday while on a visit here.

Discussing difficulties VA has with National Service Life Insurance, Bradley said:
"We have 8,000 John Smiths on our lists alone and none of them has a middle initial. You can imagine the confusion in trying to keep them straight. One John Smith of North Carolina has the middle initial of J."

The Common Good

It has often been said that a man must have a sense of dedication to some high and noble cause if he is to lead a rich, full life. Obviously if a man seeks to live only for himself, he is not only being selfish, but is cutting himself off from the fullness of life around him. What is worse, he is not being a good Christian.

To be truly happy, a man must have a lively sense of kinship with other men. He must be ready to share his joys and possessions as well as his burdens with others. To him the oft-used phrase, "the common good," must be more than a political or even pious slogan; it must be a reminder that the very gift of life itself is something that must be shared lest it become empty and profitless.

The world needs generosity. There is much misery around us because too many men are content to live in isolated egotism. These individuals may argue that the suffering and want they see on every side are not matters that concern them, but the fact remains that only the spirit of common service, universally awakened, can ever hope to keep these evils from multiplying.

The common good means simply that Christians recognize each other as neighbors and feel a definite responsibility toward one another. There are many men and women whose large-hearted devotion to the needy and underprivileged are an inspiration and hope. But unless their example inspires the great mass of their fellows to imitate them to a greater or less degree, the good they do will be incomparably feeble in comparison with what must yet be done.

If we think of peace—a peace that will envelop the world in lasting security and contentment—we must think also of what peace really is. It is not merely being free from the menace and blight of war. It is living in mutual service, in cooperativeness, understanding and forbearance. It is being dedicated, as nations and individuals, to the concept of a common service which recognizes that all men are bound together in a great universal family under the fatherhood of God.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-round

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—For years the American Federation of Labor has traditionally refrained from political entanglements. It has supported neither the Democratic nor the Republican party in a national election, but has backed individual candidates on the basis of their labor records.

Astute Sam Gompers pioneered this policy. He always contended that the federation's business was "trade unionism, not politics," and warned against alignments with either major political party.

"We will support our friends and defeat our enemies," he used to say.

Gompers' non-political policy has been in effect for half a century, but the next AFL convention, opening in Chicago on October 7, may see its end. A move is secretly afoot in AFL top councils to set up a political unit similar to the CIO's political action committee.

Chief promoter of the scheme is the gentleman who contributed half a million of miner's money to elect FDR and who switched to Wendell Willkie in 1940—John L. Lewis.

AFL insiders profess not to know exactly what Lewis is after. But there is more than a suspicion that he is trying to build a political machine to promote himself for a place on the GOP 1948 presidential ticket. In this connection, Roosevelt friends say that it was because FDR wouldn't make Lewis his vice presidential running mate that John L. jumped to the GOP.

Top Dog Lewis
Lewis has seriously discussed his plan with several AFL big shots, including President Bill Green and intends to place it before the Chicago convention. If his political committee is approved—and there is every indication it will be—John L. will then be top dog of American labor.

Lewis is counting on several influential executive council members to support him, among them Big Bill Hutcheson, boss of the carpenters, who once engaged in a fist fight with Lewis at an AFL convention and George Harrison, president of the railway clerks.

The project may not be given a political name, but its mission will be purely and simply that—namely, to counteract and compete with the CIO's PAC.

Though there will be very little time after the AFL convention Lewis has high hopes of swinging into action before the November elections. Those in on the scheme are supposed to keep quiet for the time being, but Bill Green may have tipped the play in recent speeches when he stressed the necessity of AFL's taking an active part in the next elections.

Who Gets Sugar Blame
Housewives are quite justified in being irate over the OPA's sugar allotment for canning this year, but they are placing the blame on the wrong party.

Actually it is not OPA but congress which should get the blame. What happened was that last year OPA gave out special sugar coupons to housewives who put up fruit and preserves. Those who didn't do any canning got no extra ration.

This year, the OPA merely validated two extra sugar stamps in every ration book, which meant a windfall for families that don't can. It also meant that housewives who do can were short on sugar.

The OPA knew in advance that this was not going to work out well, but they were up against the fact that congress had slashed its funds to ribbons, forcing the firing of personnel who handled last year's sugar for canning.

So if you are indignant over the scarcity of sugar for canning, put the blame where it belongs—on the doorstep of GOP Senators Taft of Ohio, Wherry and Butler of Nebraska; Congressman Hartley of New Jersey and other Republicans who led the drive to sabotage OPA.

Sugar Shortage Will Continue
Incidentally, there just isn't going to be any improvement in the sugar situation for another six months, possibly longer. It will be at least April before sugar ration cards can be thrown away.

Chief reason is it takes more than a year to rebuild sugar production in the war-ravaged Philippines, Java, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sumatra. Also labor and farm implements are still tight. Also U. S. officials got too generous with sugar last year and let the American public eat into our stockpile.

Finally, growers claim that "the government should have raised grower subsidies last year. Because subsidies were low, sugar-beet farmers raised beets and potatoes instead—crops which were more profitable and which U. S. food authorities considered more essential anyway."

High Handed Mr. Lundeberg
Frank ("Bring 'em back Alive") Buck never had a tougher time trying to bag big jungle game than did assistant labor secretary Philip Hannah last week when he went to San Francisco on orders to "bring back" Harry Lundeberg, rough-tough boss of the striking AFL sailors' Union of the Pacific.

Hannah spent two days trying to entice Lundeberg on a plane for Washington, in order to discuss the nation-wide maritime strike. He might as well have been talking to a lamp post.

"We're not going to get anywhere while you remain out here," pleaded Hannah. "Why don't you come back with me and see if we cannot work this thing out?"

The blustering Lundeberg hemmed and hawed most of last Saturday and Sunday, finally said

DEVIL'S LAUGHTER

By Alice M. Laverick

Copyright, 1946,
NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: I. Cecelia Hart, was only 17 when I came to Innisfail that eventful summer to help out Cousin Ellen, who was the Fitzgeralds' housekeeper. Autocratic old Honora Fitzgerald, who ruled the household from a sick bed, frightened me but the friendliness of lovely Charlotte Brent and Professor Mark Fitzgerald, to whom she was engaged, did much to allay my homesickness. Then Colin Fitzgerald came home and everything else paled beside his magnetic charm. The next day I overheard Mark telling Charlotte that his brother had never done a stroke of work in his life. Late that afternoon, Colin brought Beatrice Harrington and some other guests to the house.

XII
Beatrice and Colin were on horseback, racing along beside the cars, and there was a great deal of shouting and laughter and blowing of horns, and the horses pranced and reared coming up between the two rows of astonished sugar maples.

Colin Fitzgerald on a shining black mare was indeed something to see, and you might have thought from his manner that he was raised in the saddle, though there were no horses at Innisfail. The black horse belonged to the Harringtons. And Beatrice Harrington looked at him as if she helped her dismount as if she were glad that he, too, would soon belong to the Harringtons.

As they all poured noisily into the house, I ran to the kitchen, where Ellen was already taking everything edible out of the refrigerator, and starting to prepare hors d'oeuvres and sandwiches for the invasion.

We were both working like mad when Colin came out with his arms full of bottles and two cocktail shakers.

"Martinis seem to be the favorite cocktails," he told us. "Know how to make martinis, Little Saint Cecelia?" his dark eyes laughing down into mine.

"No, she doesn't," said Cousin Ellen. "Leave the stuff there, I'll make them." Her face was a study, what with her trying to show her disapproval of cocktails yet not criticize the Fitzgeralds in any way.

However, Colin had asked her to make cocktails. Make them she would, and they would be good, too.

She had just got started on them when Mark came charging into the kitchen and demanded to know what on earth Colin was thinking of.

"In heaven's name," he said furiously, "have you taken leave of your senses? Having a party here with your mother so ill? Bringing a noisy pack of idiots and morons here to shriek and fill up the house with their stupid giggling and antics?"

"Those idiots and morons, my gracious brother, happen to be my guests," said Colin. "And Mother, far from being upset, is delighted. In fact, in a moment of enthusiasm, she almost decided to join the party. She's mad about parties, she says. Of course, I talked her out of it. You needn't worry."

"You fool," said Mark, almost in a whisper. "You utter, completely selfish fool! How I keep my hands off you, I don't know."

"You'd better watch your blood pressure. You're getting along, you know. Why don't you, for once in your life, act like a human being and go in and mingle with society?" Without waiting for an answer, Colin left the kitchen, and after a moment, Mark followed.

AFTER Mark left, Cousin Ellen said with an indulgent, amused smile, "Oh, they're the great ones for arguing. Sure, they were always like that. I mind the time when they were children. It was the same song and dance then. Strong-minded they are, both of them."

She went on to tell me anecdotes of their strong-mindedness, and she said while she did not blame Mark at all for wanting the house kept quiet on account of his sick mother, on the other hand, it was a great pity if poor Colin couldn't have a few friends in for a little quiet fun of an afternoon, after the long time he'd been away and all.

She had to raise her voice while she spoke, in order for me to hear her above the "quiet fun," which steadily grew less quiet. But she chose to ignore it, even after the nurse came down to ask us in indignation if something couldn't be done about the frightful noise. After all, her patient should have first consideration, it seemed to her, and if this racket kept on, she could not answer for the harm it might do a woman who should be kept quiet and undisturbed.

Cousin Ellen said she would see what she could do. Though it did seem to her that the room should be fairly quiet if the door was kept closed. To this, the nurse, with an air of patient endurance, answered that the sick woman demanded that her door be kept open. She wanted to hear what was going on, though it was so evident that that was the worst thing she could do. The nurse went sadly upstairs again and Ellen shook her head and sighed. And the thought occurred to me then that if one of the Fitzgerald brothers should take a carving knife to the other, Ellen would shake her head and sigh and say, "Ah, the Fitzgerald boys are full of pranks."

When I went in to the living room with sandwiches and cocktails, there was a crowd around the piano acclaiming Colin's playing of the same songs that had annoyed Mark only the night before. They were all very gay and I was amazed to see that Miss Charlotte was among the gayest. Two crimson spots rode high on her cheeks, her eyes were blue fire. Her quick laugh rang out often, a trifle higher pitched than usual, and she sang with them all and was very gracious and friendly to everyone.

This was in absolute contrast to Mark, who made no attempt whatever to hide his feelings of disapproval.

Bombard When Means of Keeping Order Fail

NEW DELHI, India, Sept. 11.— (AP)—The crash of bombs, snarl of trafficking and the thunder of artillery have been echoing and re-echoing through the rocky defiles and inaccessible valleys of India's wild and woolly northwest frontier for more than three weeks.
Nearly a dozen villages have been destroyed or greatly damaged as punishment for the abduction of a British political agent. The game is played according to rigid rules in the arid mountains, where tough, crafty hillmen hold forth much as they did in Kipling's day.
One of the rules is that several days notice by messenger or leaflet must be given villages scheduled for attack so that inhabitants may make their way with their belongings into hillside caves and hiding places to watch in safety as their homes are blasted into bits.

Deaths Reported
An authoritative New Delhi
source said two or three deaths had been reported as a result of "the mistake of a pilot" who bombed the wrong village. He said compensation had been paid and apologies made.
The informant, who declined to be identified by name, said bombardment was "a course which occasionally has to be taken when all other means of maintaining law and order fail." He said "the latest indications are the tribesmen are quieting down."
New Delhi sources explained that the intent is to destroy the tenuously constructed habitations and watchtowers, often 50 feet high, of tribesmen whose building materials are extremely scarce.

This is in order "to keep them busy and out of mischief for the next few months."
These sources related this sequence of events in the latest "incident" in the innumerable frontier series:
A large band of heavily armed tribesmen attacked and captured a party including Major J. O. S.
Donald, political agent of the chief commissioner, in southern Waziristan, only seven miles from headquarters at Razmak, where a full brigade is stationed.
Rules for Punishment
The Shabi Kheh tribesmen were told that they could expect punishment commensurate with the length of time that the prisoners were held. The hillmen replied promptly that they would kill their captives if they were attacked. Lengthy negotiations through the village headman finally won release of the prisoners, but the British claimed that the Shabi Kheh had failed to comply with certain unspecified demands by the government of the northwest frontier province.

As a result, planes and artillery were sent—after due warning—to attack the hill villages in early August, but still there were no overtures from the hillmen. Unlucky action was resumed in the last two weeks in August and nearly a dozen villages were wholly or partially destroyed.
But the rough and ready tribesmen have not given in yet—and that's how it stands.

Disturbed Over Butter Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—(AP)— Disturbed by rising butter and cheese prices, the decontrol board
Thursday called for evidence regarding possible re-control of the dairy prices.
The board issued a formal notice calling for an explanation of the increases to be considered at a board meeting here September 18.
"Higher prices for butter and cheese," the board said in a statement, "threaten to bring about higher prices in other manufactured dairy products, thus endangering the general price level of all dairy products."
The independent board allowed milk, butter, cheese and other dairy products to remain free from price control August 20 after a public hearing which resulted in reapplication of ceilings on meat.

Charge By Police Made Into Crowd

'Squatters' Plead For Blankets In Resisting Of Being Evicted

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Mounted police charged into a crowd of 2,000 "squatter sympathizers" choking traffic lanes outside a squatter-occupied luxury apartment building tonight and broke up a demonstration and sitdown strike.

No one was injured. The crowd which had gathered in protest against police refusal to allow delivery of blankets to the squatters finally dispersed.

The demonstrators succeeded in forcing some blankets through a police barricade around the apartment, the Abbey Lodge, one of the vacant luxury buildings seized by the squatters in London's fashionable west end.

Executing Orders

The police, executing orders of the British Cabinet to quell the communist-led revolt against the rehousing program, were "boiled and accused of being 'labor tools' as they broke up the demonstration."

Buses Are Held Up

The demonstrators caused buses to be held up and to be driven over curbstones in order to permit passengers to alight.

Mounted police swung into action in an effort to open traffic lanes.

Earlier, squatters inside the lodge held babies at open windows in an appeal to the crowds for blankets and food.

Lacking furniture and public utilities, the building was occupied after the movement into luxury buildings started last Monday.

Police, acting on orders straight from No. 10 Downing street (the office of the prime minister) to end the "forcible entry" of vacant private dwellings, refused to let sympathizers pass food into three of the largest squatter-occupied buildings, despite pleas that "the children are hungry."

In retaliation, the squatters said they planned an appeal direct to King George VI for help, and declared they would seek thousands of signatures on a petition to be circulated at a Trafalgar Square mass meeting tonight.

Backers of the squatters called another open-air mass meeting near Leicester square.

But since the king acts only on the advice of his ministers, the squatters already had the answer to their proposed petition.

For the government denounced the whole squatted technique yesterday as an unlawful incitement to anarchy, and threatened prosecution of the squatter leaders for criminal conspiracy.

Planning Further Action

"Such action from a labor government against the people who brought it into power would be monstrous," said the Communist Daily Worker.

The government is making a pool of itself with its pompous statement about the danger of anarchy.

Richard Harding, communist organizer of last night's sloop by the Ivanhoe hotel in Bloomsbury, said "secret" plans were being made to get 200 more families past police barriers into the 620-room hotel, which has been vacant for six weeks.

Expect More and Cheaper Canned Fruit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—More and cheaper canned fruits are in prospect.

The agriculture department reported today that this year's pack is expected to set a new record with slightly lower prices, a possibility.

Significant increases are expected, the department said, for canned apples, apricots, sour cherries, peaches and canned citrus segments.

Directs Work On Church Cease

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Immediate stoppage of all work on construction of a church was directed today in a restraining order issued by Federal District Judge Arthur C. Mellett.

In the application, government attorneys alleged the church, the Rainbow Boulevard Church of the Nabarene, was being erected without a permit from the Civilian Production Administration.

A hearing on the order was set for Friday morning.

Named as defendants in the order were the Rev. Frank E. Harris, pastor of the church; Melvin Hunter and John Cox, trustees; J. C. Waters, contractors, and Thomas Waters, construction foreman.

Action was taken after Clause A. Rice, attorney and World War II veteran complained in a letter to the CPA today construction of the church was an "arrogant, boastful and willful violation of the law."

Optimist Club Has Dinner On Charter Night

R. Tucker Carter, Of Kansas City Is Chief Speaker

"Optimism" said R. Carter Tucker, Kansas City, past president of the Optimist International, addressing the new Sedalia Optimist club at its charter night meeting at the Bothwell hotel Thursday night, "is the art of facing facts and working out a solution to problems in the most satisfactory manner."

He told how prior to 1917 small groups of optimist men sprung up in various cities and towns and how they later banded together as one group, and from that has grown the organization which today is an international one.

Mr. Carter told of the club's principal activity, being a friend to the boy, and gave instances of the help the spirit of optimism has been to boys, some of whom are today among the nation's most outstanding men.

Installed Officers

Mr. Carter then presented the charter and installed the officers of the Sedalia club who are: President, Dr. Ben E. Klein; vice-president, Harry N. Lambirth; secretary, Dr. Thomas W. Bast; treasurer, J. Lee Brandt; treasurer, Frank Mehli; chaplain, Rev. John L. Murphy; board of governors, Roy Burkholder, Dimmit Hoffman, Harry J. Cooney and George C. Hoffman.

Master of ceremonies for the dinner meeting was James W. Whitsett, Kansas City, past president of the Kansas City club, which sponsored the Sedalia organization, who presided most capably, injecting humor into his remarks frequently.

Dr. Klein, as club president, introduced guests seated at the head table. They were: Lewis E. Selders, Kansas City; I. H. Reed, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. Reed; Mrs. Ollie McMullin, president of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's club and Mr. McMullin; Mayor Julian H. Bagby; Z. ## Wallace For Clear Foreign Policy Of Own

In Address Gives Views On Way To Prevent War

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace warned tonight that the "British imperialistic policy" in the near east, combined with "Russian retaliation," would lead the United States straight to war unless this country formulates a clearly-defined and realistic foreign policy of its own.

"To prevent war and insure our survival in a stable world, it is essential that we look abroad through our own American eyes and not through the eyes of either the British foreign office or a pro-British or anti-Russian press," Wallace declared in an address prepared for a meeting sponsored by the National Citizens Political Action Committee and the Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Science and Professions at Madison Square Garden.

"In this connection, I want one thing clearly understood," he continued. "I am neither anti-British nor pro-British—neither anti-Russian nor pro-Russian. And just two days ago, when President Truman read these words, he said that they represented the policy of his administration."

For Mead And Lehman

Wallace, in advocating the candidacies of Senator James Mead and Herbert Lehman, New York's Democratic nominees for governor and U. S. Senator, respectively, told his audience that Gov. Dewey has expressed himself as favoring an alliance of mutual defense with Great Britain as the key to our foreign policy.

"Certainly, we like the British people as individuals," he said. "But to make Britain the key to our foreign policy would be, in my opinion, the height of folly. We must not let the reactionary leadership of the Republican party force us into that position. We must not let British balance-of-power manipulations determine whether and when the United States gets into war."

In dealing with the Soviet Union, Wallace said this nation was reckoning with a force which cannot be handled successfully by a "get tough with Russia" policy.

"The tougher we get, the tougher the Russians will get," he predicted.

Want Peace With Russia

Wallace asserted that the United States wants peace with Russia, but "we want to be met halfway." On our part, he declared, we should recognize that we have no more business in the political affairs of eastern Europe than Russia has in the political affairs of Latin America, western Europe and the United States.

"We may not like what Russia does in eastern Europe," the secretary said. "Her type of land and suppression of basic liberties offends the great majority of the people of the United States. But whether we like it or not the Russians will try to socialize their sphere of influence just as we try to democratize our sphere of influence."

Wallace declared that "an equitable settlement, based on a unified German nation" is essential to any lasting European settlement and that while we cannot permit the door to be closed against our trade in eastern Europe, we have to recognize "that Russia cannot permit either England or the United States to dominate the politics of that area."

In the Far East, Wallace asked for a "unified and peaceful China"—built on the cooperation of the various groups in that country and based on a hands-off policy of the outside powers."

"Russian ideas of social-economic justice are going to govern nearly a third of the world," Wallace told the meeting. "Our ideas of free enterprise democracy will govern much of the rest. The two ideas will endeavor to prove which can deliver the most satisfaction to the common man in their respective areas of political dominance. But by mutual agreement, on a friendly basis and the Russians should stop scheming against the United States."

Let the results of the two systems speak for themselves, x x x.

Wallace proposed that only the United Nations should have atomic bombs and suggested that its military establishment should give special emphasis to air power.

On the domestic front, Wallace described the "recent mass lynching in Georgia" as an "illustration of the kind of prejudice that makes war inevitable." If we are to work for peace in the rest of the world, he said, "We here in the United States must eliminate racism from our unions, our business organizations, our educational institutions, and our employment practices."

The nation must also, in payment for peace, give up prejudice, hatred, fear and ignorance in the economic world, Wallace said. He advocated working for a larger volume of world trade, and helping undeveloped areas of the world to industrialize themselves with the help of American technical assistance and loans.

"The United States is the world's great creditor nation," he pointed out. "And low tariffs for creditor nations are a part of the price of peace. x x x individual Republicans may hold enlightened views—but the Republican party as a whole is irrevocably committed to tariff and trade policies which can only mean world-wide depression, ruthless economic warfare and eventual war. x x x"

Executives In Running Trains

HARRISON, Ark., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Railroad executives are operating mopping-up trains on the strikebound Missouri and Arkansas railway.

The executives, headed by C. C. Fette, chief operating officer, and J. E. Halter, assistant, arrived at Seligman, Mo., last night with the first train operated after engineers and firemen walked off their jobs at 6 a. m. Wednesday, joining striking trainmen.

Approximately 200 freight cars remain on the tracks, which extend 361 miles from Joplin, Mo., to Helena, Ark. About 50 cars are loaded with non-perishable freight and the remainder are empty.

Shippers along the line continued to make other arrangements to move their products—mostly by truck transportation.

No Plans For Fliers Bodies

A Speech Tour At Arlington President Has One Definite Date For An Address

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—President Truman told reporters today his plans to speak in the current Democratic campaign are still in the embryonic stage and that he plans no tour.

He said he had invitations to speak from every state but as yet has made no definite arrangements for any speeches.

White House aides indicated recently that the President had at least one definite speaking date and probably would make a couple of speeches during the campaign. Secretary Charles G. Ross would not say where the speaking engagement was. Later callers at the White House reported the President told them he expected to speak in Kansas City, Mo., in October.

Receives Party Leaders

Mr. Truman made his observations on the campaign at today's news conference after receiving Democratic party leaders and 21 candidates for the senate, house and governors from 11 scattered states.

In greeting them, he told them: "The first business of mine, of course, is being President of the United States and working for all the people of the country."

"My second business to head the Democratic party and think the Democratic party is the only party that has ever worked for all the people of the United States."

Several of the candidates said they asked the President to come to the states during the campaign but received no definite promises. Among those extending invitations were candidates from Wisconsin and Kentucky.

The President told the news conference he had approved the entire speech on foreign policy in New York tonight by Secretary of Commerce Wallace and that he considered the speech to be in line with the policies of Secretary of State Byrnes. Wallace addressed a Madison Square Garden meeting sponsored by the national Citizens Political Action Committee and others.

To Speak At Kansas City

A week ago, presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the President probably would make a couple of speeches during the campaign but to date has only one definite engagement. He did not specify it, but a White House caller later said the President told him he will speak at Kansas City, Mo., next month at the American Royal show.

Mr. Truman said today he is considering going again to the county fair at Caruthersville, Mo., next month as he did last year. He could combine this with his Kansas City appearance.

Narrowly Escapes Burning To Death

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Seven St. Louisans narrowly escaped death, but suffered serious burns or injuries when an automobile in which they were riding overturned and caught fire after a collision with another machine at an intersection here last night.

Mrs. Pearl Mayo Struck By Auto

Mrs. Pearl Mayo, 411 East Third street, was struck by a car driven by George Walz, rural route 1 Smithton, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Mayo was crossing Main street, going south on Ohio when the car driven by Walz, which was traveling east on Main came to the intersection and hit her. Walz said he was trying to stop the car but didn't have time. He states that he was going only ten miles per hour.

Walz could not produce a driver's license and ordered to appear in court Friday. He gave a $9.70 cash bond.

Mrs. Mayo's injuries were slight and after treatment at the Bothwell hospital for a bruise on the left side she was dismissed and sent to her home.

Both Mrs. Mayo and Walz claimed that they were moving on a green light.

Fliers Bodies At Arlington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Bodies of five American airmen whose plane was shot down by Yugoslav fighters rested under flag-draped caskets tonight in the Amphitheater chapel of Arlington National cemetery.

Large crowds were on hand at National airport this afternoon when the bodies arrived from Europe on an army transport plane, and again at Arlington when the caskets were taken to their present resting place a few yards from the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The bodies will lie in state, with an honor guard of two soldiers, until the respective families arrive in Washington to complete plans for military burial services.

None of the families was present at today's ceremonies but all were reported en route.

Among the high-ranking government officials participating in the brief ceremonies at the airport and cemetery were Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commanding general of the Mediterranean theater; Lt. Gen. Harold H. George, chief of the air transport command; Major Gen. E. E. Partridge of the army air force, and assistant secretary of state John H. Hildring.

No officials of the Yugoslav embassy were present at either service, so far as could be learned.

At the airport General Lee, who flew to Washington from Italy in advance of the bodies, delivered a brief eulogy.

He said the five men had given their lives for the nation—that they had fallen in line of duty "similar to that being performed by other thousands of Americans around the world."

Ignore Indictment Bill In Killing

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A circuit court grand jury today ignored a bill of indictment in the case of Frank J. Student, 32-year-old iron worker and father of three small children accused of beating his wife to death with his fists June 29.

Assistant Circuit Attorney William E. Geeske said no other charges would be filed.

Three witnesses testified that Student, 26, frequently dated soldiers from Jefferson Barracks while her husband remained at home to care for their children, ages 7, 5 and 4.

A sister-in-law told the jury Student once said of his wife: "I've taken all I can take from her."

Waives Hearing In Kidnaping Case

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Mildred Everett, 22, held as the alleged kidnaper of Madeleine Tobias, 3-year-old Kansas City girl, was brought before U. S. Commissioner Clyde R. Randall today. He set her bond at $5,000 on a federal charge of kidnapping.

She waived a plea and was taken to Indianapolis to be held in jail there pending transfer of the jurisdiction of the U. S. circuit court at Kansas City.

Freshman Days Are Changed

LIBERTY, Mo., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Freshman days at William Jewell college aren't what they used to be.

A senior proclamation yesterday abolished many of the rites of initiation and traditions applied to the first year students. Freshmen are permitted to go without garters and no longer are required to carry paddles. Freshmen women may use make-up and they have their choice of hose, no hose or anklets instead of the traditional black stockings.

Another rite to go was "but-toning" under which, at the command of a senior, a freshman would place his thumb on the crown of his head and squat.

Armand Spizziri, president of the senior class explained that it not only would look silly but it would be foolish for some senior girl to say "Buttom" to an army captain who landed on Normandy beach or a navy veteran of Guadalcanal.

Former Naval Flier Speaks To Kiwanians

Gives Description Of United States Anti-Sub Warfare

An intensely interesting description of anti-submarine warfare, a story of "Keeping 'Em Down," during World War II, was told by Bert Hathaway to his fellow Kiwanians at the Sedalia club's meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

Hathaway was a naval flyer and instructor for three years during the war and operated in anti-sub activities of the U. S. forces in the Caribbean, off the Florida and African coasts and in the Mediterranean.

He explained many of the technical devices created to combat the German sub menace particularly in the Straits of Gibraltar where one time a sub was driven off just thirty minutes before President Roosevelt's ship passed on its way to take the president to the Tehran conference.

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. Bird Campbell, program chairman.

Model Airplane Contest

Lou Satorius again called attention to the Model Airplane contest to be sponsored by the club September 21 and 22. Free flights will be held at the Sedalia airport near the Bothwell hotel.

Control flights will be held the following day at Liberty Park.

The Rev. Fr. A. J. Bunswick, president, announced the board of directors would meet Friday noon in the Palm Room, Hotel Bothwell.

On the occasion of his becoming father of a new son, Kiwanian Fred Schlapper was honored by the members singing "Rockabye Baby."

G. J. Merrick, Buffalo, N. Y., was a guest of his son, the Rev. J. E. Merrick.

Drive To Smash Black Market

By BRACK CURRY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A nationwide drive to smash alleged black market dealings in textiles, including men's shirts, was disclosed today by the justice department.

Pursuing voluntary tips, government agents are investigating 300 corporations and individuals who reportedly have diverted millions of yards of textiles into illegal channels.

Disclosing this to a reporter, a justice department official said the materials involved range from the raw state to finished goods, including shirts, pajamas and women's dresses.

"This illegal market has contributed materially to the present shortage of some types of clothing," he declared.

The department has ordered all United States attorneys to give priority to black market and tax evasion cases.

A special grand jury is in session in New York to receive evidence now being assembled by government agents.

The official said the investigation stemmed in part from "hundreds of complaints and voluntary tips, many of them anonymous. The investigation is countrywide."

Two types of practices are the principal targets of the drive: 1. Diversion into the black market of cotton textiles at prices above OPA ceilings.

2. Frauds in connection with priorities. This involves obtaining textiles by representing that they will be used to make uniforms for the armed forces and using them for other more profitable items.

The official reported the investigation is uncovering many income tax dodgers.

Break Comes For An End To Strikes By Seamen of AFL

Nation's Big Packer Center Whistle Stop

Bulk of Cattle Being Sent East; But That Isn't Much

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Chicago, the nation's largest meat packing center, has become a whistle stop for cattle on their way from ranges and farms to the east—Boston, New York, Philadelphia.

The situation is a repetition of conditions which existed under previous OPA ceilings and which led to charges there was a rampant meat "black market" in the eastern section of the country.

Least easterners become excited over prospects of more meat, the agriculture department noted that slaughter cattle arrivals are at record low levels—the east is getting most of them, but it isn't getting much.

L. M. Wyatt, head of the production and marketing administration livestock branch, said the situation at Chicago was duplicated at other midwestern markets. The bulk of the few cattle available, he said, were merely moving through the major livestock terminals.

Plants Shutting Down

Record low runs and eastern shipments were shutting down many small packing plants and curtailing employment in larger plants throughout the midwest.

Large local packers said prices of cattle here were from $1 to $5 above levels at which they could buy and still remain within OPA "compliance figures."

One explanation of the eastward movement, which reverses the situation existing during free markets, was the possibility of a developing black market, livestock observers said.

Another possible explanation, they said, was that government meat graders might be more lenient in the east.

Statistics

In the four weeks ended June 29, prior to the temporary end of OPA ceilings, slaughter in the New York City area (New York, Newark and New Jersey) totaled 41,732 head. At Chicago, it totaled 24,746 head.

In the four weeks ended July 27, with OPA ceilings off, the New York area slaughter totaled 49,694 head and Chicago 102,619. With controls still off in the five weeks ended August 31 New York slaughter totaled 51,246 head and Chicago 140,893 head.

Now, with ceilings back on, the movement is again to the east—but not necessarily to the legitimate market in the east.

Easing Up In Truckers Strike

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Members of local 807, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, (AFL), refused to return to work today, but the trucking strike eased as thousands of other drivers climbed back behind their wheels after a 12-day walk-out.

John E. Strong, President of Local 807, was authorized with other local officials to enter negotiations at Mayor William O'Dwyer's office tonight. It marked the first time the union had agreed to negotiate since the strike began.

The agreement to negotiate was reached with the provision that any proposals growing out of negotiations would have to be submitted to the membership of the local for approval.

The refusal to return to work, by voice vote of members of Local 807, with a membership of 12,000, came at a mass meeting in Manhattan center where union leaders vainly sought to get the drivers to return.

Membership of Local 807 represents about half of the total number on strike and is responsible for approximately 85 percent of general trucking in the city. So far the members have been the chief holdouts against Teamster President Daniel J. Tobin's order for teamsters to abide by their contracts.

Tom Keating Addresses Booster Club

Gives Explanation Of Railroad Retirement Act

The Sedalia Booster Club held its September meeting during the noon hour at the local Missouri Pacific shops last week with F. G. Rose, Chief Booster, presiding. John Taylor, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Rose made a short talk relative to the coal situation. He pleaded with the employees to order their coal now as there will be a shortage of coal cars. He spoke relative to Safety First and urged all to keep up the good record thus far this year.

He then presented Tom Keating, local field representative, Railroad Retirement Board, who addressed the employees on the Railroad Retirement Act.

Mr. Keating explained the provisions for eligibility under the act as provided under the recent amendment, also different types of death benefits and the changes under the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act. He stated the changes under the amendments will be in effect January 1, 1947.

Women Can Retire

Under the new amendment women who have served 30 years can retire on a full annuity at any time after the age of 60 years.

Questions were asked by the employees and Mr. Keating answered them according to the amendments.

Mr. Keating further pointed out that the 1946 amendments mean considerable to survivors of railroad workers. In order for them to receive monthly benefits, the person they survive must have been properly insured at the time of his death. In order to be considered properly insured, he must have been awarded a pension under the Railroad Retirement Act or an annuity, based on at least 10 years of service, which began to accrue before 1947.

Rose expressed his appreciation to Mr. Keating for his remarks and invited him out again to explain to the employees the changes in the law as time goes on.

Underwriters Hear D. S. Lamm,

The Sedalia Life Underwriters Association met at noon Saturday at the Hotel Bothwell with William L. Reed, president, presiding.

An education committee was appointed, consisting of Abe Silverman as chairman, Harold Hausman, George Yeaman and Harry Trotman. It is the purpose of this committee to present information and data to enable the public to have a better understanding of life insurance matters.

The ball, given annually, is to obtain funds to purchase personal equipment and clothing, apparel for the police officers such as Sam Brown belts, gun holsters, ornaments for their uniforms, etc. The ball, started back in the early 30's has become an affair which is looked forward to by not only the police officers but Sedalians who enjoy the night's entertainment.

Police officers were issued their tickets the past week and already more than 750 advance sales have been made. ## Legislature Takes New Lease on Life

By Larry Hall

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 7.—(P)—Missouri's never-say-die legislature, already the longest and most productive in history, takes a new lease on life Monday.

The House of Representatives convenes for a fall session then, while the senate holds a skeleton session preparatory to resuming full scale work a week later.

This time the pressure of revising laws to fit the 1945 constitution will not be so heavy. The assembly took care of most of that work before it quit for the summer June 28. But some sizeable problems remain.

If the legislature tackles many of them, it might be in session for several months. Estimates of the length of the fall meeting range from three weeks upward, depending on how many serious controversies pop up.

Small Loans Fight Hot

The hottest single issue waiting for the lawmakers—if they choose to take it off the table—is the long standing small loan fight.

When the assembly recessed for the summer, the controversy was left suspended in conference committee. The senate wanted to make the top interest rate for small loans 30 per cent a year, but the house would go no higher than 24 per cent.

Since no regulatory bill was passed, the small loan companies

Police Help On Unusual Call

Something, not so new to local police, but furnishing considerable excitement occurred Saturday afternoon, when a steer got loose from a cattle truck and roamed the west part of Sedalia. A near "old fashioned" round-up occurred; three police officers participating with the driver and helper of the cattle truck.

"Tie" Clark, and two fellow officers Tommy Lingle and Lester Estes answered the call for help. Clark furnished much information on how to round up the steer, using his knowledge of boyhood farm experience.

The steer was caught, put back in the truck and started on its way to market.

Later last night reports came to the police that two more white face steers were loose near Fourteenth street and Snead avenue. Two patrol cars and night-chief, John O'Brien's car went to that destination to corral the stray beef. The steers went from Fourteenth to the M. K. T. stock yard. With about ten men and the "expert guidance" of William Hefield, the police just about had them cornered, but they rushed across the road in front of the yards and into the field. The posse, seeing that it was hopeless to try and track them down at night, returned to town.

Time Now To Prepare For Spring Flowers

Fall Flowers Are Attractive After Recent Rains

Now that the summer rush is over many homemakers will find a little more time to look over and enjoy the flowers which the recent rains have caused to bloom again, suggests Miss Alice Alexander, Home Demonstration Agent, in her Home Beautification Chats around the Calendar. The cosmos, zinnias, marigolds, petunias and hardy phlox are all a riot of color at present, so consider them next spring when planting. If the old blooms are cut off when they begin to show signs of perishing, the plants will be more vigorous and will bloom for a longer period.

Since the growing season is over, every person should take time to recall some flowering plant or shrub that was seen some place, admired, and wished for in one's own garden. Now is the time to plan to either get a cutting, root, or slip of the plant desired from a neighbor or other acquaintance, or to order it from a catalogue. But, before getting the plant one should know just the place to put it so that it may show to the best advantage, and also that it may enhance the beauty of its new surroundings.

Take ample time to study plantings around the farmstead and to decide if they have been placed for the best effect. Come shorter ones may be behind taller ones, now that they have gone through a growing season, some may be too tall for their location; possible in front of a window where it interferes with light and air, and should be removed, and a lower one put in its place. Too many persons just shear off the top of a shrub that is too tall. This treatment may be used with such shrubs as Japanese barberry and the privets, but spoils such graceful shaped shrubs as Spirea Van Houttei.

Provide Spring Blossoms
When spring comes every one will enjoy the blossoms of the bulbs that have been set out this fall, so plan to plant a few groups of crocuses, the grape hyacinth, jonquils, hyacinths, and tulips. Plant enough of each kind in one place to make a showing when in blossom. Annuals may be planted when the bulbs have ceased blooming or seeds of poppies may be broadcast over the bulb bed in the fall or early April. These will bloom shortly after the bulbs have ceased.

The poppies may need thinning out.
Make a note of the places in plantings that lack autumn and winter color. Red-twigged dogwood, bitter-sweet, yucca and black haw are native plants that will supply color and that may be had for the transplanting. The high-bush cranberry and bush honeysuckle will supply berries to add to the autumn colors.
A clean yard now will mean easier work in the spring when one is always rushed. Stakes, brush, rocks, garden furniture, all should be removed from the yard, before winter begins. And the grass should be kept cut as late as possible.

Albania on Greek Border

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The New York Times reported from Rome today that Albania had "been steadily concentrating large forces, including two Russian infantry regiments, on the Greek border for the past weeks."

The Times correspondent, quoting "very good authority," reported:

"Albanian troops were being aided by Russian military advisers and strengthened with Russian materiel, including fighter planes, a small number of medium tanks, mortars, machine guns and ammunition."

Reporting Russian field batteries were arriving in Triana from Belgrade for service on the strategic island of Saseo, in the Bay of Valona, the dispatch said:

"The Albanian government is believed to have ceded Saseo secretly to Russia."

"The island is near the mouth of the Adriatic sea—an extension of the Mediterranean."

The dispatch said many skirmishes had occurred between Greek and Albanian frontier forces and that 200 wounded Albanian soldiers were being treated in a hospital last month.

Howard Hughes Flies Again

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Howard Hughes, millionaire industrialist and movie producer, landed at La Guardia Field shortly before midnight last night to complete his first cross-country hop since his near-fatal crash in an experimental plane in California two months ago.

Hughes, flying his own reconverted B-23 two-engine transport, completed the flight from the coast in two legs, the first taking him to Kansas City Tuesday. He stopped over in Kansas City for 23½ hours.

Asked "how he got the nerve to fly again" after his crash, Hughes replied:

"What are you supposed to do—spend the rest of your life in a wheel chair?"

He said he would confer with his attorneys to "push" litigation regarding his motion picture, "The Outlaw." The Motion Picture Producers Association has charged that Hughes failed to obtain approval for advertising and publicity material used in publicizing the film.

Polio Cases Tapering Off

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A drop for the third straight week in the number of new infantile paralysis cases raised hopes of U. S. Public Health officials today that the outbreak will now rapidly taper off.

"Sometimes the new cases show a rapid decline," a health service official told a reporter. "The rate of decline probably will grow greater."

In the week ending Sept. 7, the number of new cases reported was 1,601. No report was received from Missouri. Peak of 1,814 cases was reached in the week ending August 17.

Thus far this year, there have been 14,030 cases reported. By comparison, there were 10,972 cases for the comparable period of 1944 which eventually became the second worst year in the agency's records with 19,029 cases. The peak of the 1944 outbreak was not reached, however, until September 2.

U. S. Sergeants Now in Italy

CASERTA, Italy, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Three American air force sergeants who were refused permission to leave Yugoslavia for seven months because Yugoslav authorities wanted to question them about the fatal shooting of a Russian officer, arrived in Italy today.

The three, whose release was the subject of prolonged negotiations between Washington and Belgrade, are Kenneth E. Shussel, San Francisco; Chester B. Scott, Nashville, Tenn.; and Theodore C. Nelson, North Park Falls, Wis.

They lived under the protection of the U. S. embassy, which refused to surrender them to the Yugoslavs after the U. S. army authorities satisfied themselves that the three were not involved in the shooting.

A special plane brought them to Naples and they will fly on to Paris to rejoin their air transport command outfit.

At the present time, married veterans and those with dependents are limited to $200 a month, including subsistence and regular salary. For single veterans the figure is $175.

Break Comes For An End To Strikes By Seamen Of AFL

statement" tonight the office of economic stabilization said all the shipowners stated they were "willing to absorb the increase" without the wage boost a basis for a rate increase. But the WSE's report indicated otherwise as far as the west coast operators are concerned, and one of Steelman's aides said the controversial clause apparently would have to be stricken from the contract before the maritime commission could make the new scale applicable to west coast ships.

This view was supported by the United States conciliation service, which announced that steps were being taken in San Francisco to open negotiations toward a new contract between the Pacific Coast shipowners and Harry Ludenberg head of the Sailors Union of the Pacific.

Conciliation Director Edgar L. Warren asked Nathan P. Feinsinger, former chairman of the War Labor Board, to help in negotiations, and he went into a meeting at once with representatives of the carriers.

At San Francisco, Ludenberg, a top leader in the AFL strike, said the Steelman order indicates that "the wage board's unrealistic policy has been overruled."

The maritime commission indicated its intention of putting the new wage scale into effect at once. Vice admiral W. W. Smith, chairman, issued a one-sentence statement saying the commission "will carry out the authorization given by the director of economic stabilization."

CIO Meeting Today

There was grave question, however, whether the CIO's powerful maritime unions would permit peace to return to the waterfront immediately, despite the probable quick settlement with Ludenberg's union and its east-coast affiliate, the Seafarers International Union.

The seven-union, CIO-dominated committee for maritime unity, got only a $17.50 increase in June, and has a leadership meeting scheduled for tomorrow to decide whether now to go after the gains won by the AFL. The CIO's 200,000 members have respected the picket lines of their 90,000 AFL brethren.

It appeared virtually certain that CIO ultimately would get the same wage, but this would involve revision of the existing contract, which might take time.

At a news conference before the white house plan was announced, President Truman was firm and even brusque in a discussion of what one reporter called "a hope, less spiral of paralyzing strikes." The reporter asked about any presidential intention to take action.

He has taken action, Mr. Truman replied. He thought it was last February in an order he had issued. This apparently was February 14 stabilization order permitting pay increases without federal approval unless they involved rice rises or increased costs to the government.

The wage stabilization board, in disapproving the full wage demands of the AFL maritime unions, contended that these amounts would add to government costs and be inflationary.

Mr. Truman was asked whether he would propose new laws to back up his order. Tardily, he replied that he was not sure it was being violated. Told that a lot of people thought it was, the President said he thought we will work it out.

He said specifically that the Steelman plan for a basis of settlement would contain no departure from the government's general wage-price stabilization policy. He did not elaborate on this point.

Cardinals Win 10 to 2 Over The Dodgers

Boost Their National League Lead To Two And A Half Games

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals boosted their National League lead to two and a half games today by crushing the second-place Dodgers 10 to 2 in a 14-hit attack before a crowd of 31,303 fans.

St. Louis 501 000 040—10 14 1 Brooklyn 020 000 000—2 5 2

Pollett and Garagiola; Higbe, Minner (3), Branca (6), Behrman (8), Barney (8) and Edwards.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals fell on Kirby Higbe for five runs after two men were out in the first inning today to take a commanding lead over the Dodgers in the opening game of their crucial series for the National League lead.

Called on to close the game and a half gap separating the league-leading Cards and the Brooklyn, Higbe retired the first two hitters and had two strikes on Stan Musial when the roof fell in on him to the consternation of a standing-room-only crowd at Ebbets Field.

Musial lined a double off the right field wall. Enos Slaughter drew a walk. Whitney Kurowski's infield hit off Cookie Lavagetto's glove loaded the bases.

This set the stage for Dick Sisk's run single on a line drive off Howie Schultz's glove into right field.

Joe Garagiola then unloaded a tremendous home run, his third of the year, off the top of the right field screen into Bedford avenue, scoring behind Kurowski and Sisk for a 5-0 lead.

After going down in order in the first, the Dodgers caught up with Howie Pollett, the Cards' top left-hander who has beaten the Brooklyn three times this season up to now, and scored a pair of runs in the second to cut the St. Louis lead down to 5-2.

The Cards put on the pressure again in the third. Slaughter's double to right and Kurowski's single off Pee Wee Reese's glove doomed Higbe.

Durocher called in Lefty Paul Minner, a rookie recently recalled from the Mobile farm club where he won 13 and lost 11 this season. He was pitching his first big league game today. He got pinch hitter Terry Moore on a fly ball, but when Towie Schultz let Carl Furillo's throw to the plate get away from him on an attempted cut-off, Slaughter scored. Minner then fanned Garagiola to end the threat, with St. Louis in front 6-2.

Ralph Branca, who has won one and lost none this season, took up the Dodge pitching in the sixth with the score still 6-2.

After two were out, Pollett walked in the Cards' sixth inning, but Schoendienst fouled to Schultz to leave him stranded. Dixie Walker opened the Brooks' half with a line single to center and moved to second on Carl Furillo's roller but died there.

Musial doubled off the right field wall with one gone in the seventh, but wasn't advanced. Pollett retired the Dodgers in succession, including Pinch Hitter Everett Anderson, who hit for Branca. Hank Behrman went to the hill for Brooklyn in the eighth with the score still St. Louis 6, Brooklyn 2.

St. Louisans greeted him like a long lost cousin in the eighth, scoring three more runs before Dixie replaced him with Rex Barney, who counted the fourth run of the frame.

Garagiola opened with a walk and Marion bunted him to second. Pollett then unloaded a double to the left field corner, scoring Garagiola, but the pitcher was cut down trying to stretch it into a triple. Schoendienst singled to left and Harry Walker had a life when Lavagetto fumbled his grounder. Musial's line single to center scored Schoendienst and Walker.

Walker, who was associated with him in medical practice as Dr. Irene Koenke, was on her way by plane from Toronto, Canada, where she had been taking postgraduate study in Toronto University.

Also en route here by air were two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Brown and Mrs. Helen Huebert, both of Los Angeles.

Reject Russian Motion

Commission Establishes Court Of Justice For Treaty Disputes

By Robert Eunson
PARIS, Sept. 12.—(AP)—

The Romanian Political and Territorial Commission, over Russian objections, established the International Court of Justice today as the final tribunal in disputes arising from the treaty.

The action, paralleling a similar decision in the Finnish committee earlier this week, rejected a Russian motion to refer all such disputes to the Allied ambassadors or ministers involved.

The United States and Britain sponsored the winning proposal. Australia, Canada, India, New Zealand, South Africa and France joined them in the balloting. The Soviet Union, White Russia, the Ukraine and Czechoslovakia voted against the proposal.

Alexander Bogomolov, Soviet delegate, criticized the idea as a time-wasting "line of least resistance."

The Finnish Political and Territorial Commission finished work on political and territorial clauses of the Finnish draft treaty and the news caused elation in the conference, which is struggling to complete its task by Oct. 20.

Italy Asks Stronger Navy

Italy sought permission of the 21-nation peace conference today to increase the effective strength of her projected peace-time navy from 22,500 officers and men—the figure fixed by the Big Four—to 35,000.

The Italian delegation prepared to present to the military commission—which approved the Big Four recommendation on Sept. 3—a request for the increase of 12,500 in a final plea today for "defensive armaments," together with a plea that the excessive shipping which the victor nations demand Italy destroy, be converted to scrap iron rather than become a total loss.

At the same time, Dr. Ales Beder of Yugoslavia was scheduled to wind up Yugoslav demands on Italy before the Italian political and territorial commission with a demand that the Italian city of Montenegro, which lies about 17 miles northwest of Trieste and about the same distance southwest of Gorizia, be turned over to Yugoslavia.

Trieste Up Friday

On another phase of the Italian treaty, a nine-nations sub-committee worked into the early hours of this morning on reparations claims against Italy and invited Ethiopia, France, Britain, Yugoslavia, Egypt and Holland to state their cases before it. The United States yesterday renounced all claims for reparations Italy but died there.

The Italian Political Commission splitting along east-west lines, voted down 11 to nine a Czechoslovak proposal to set up a sub-division to study the Italy-Yugoslav border.

The commission chairman, Lief Egeland of South Africa, announced the commission would begin tomorrow its general discussion on the statute of the free area of Trieste to allow a sub-committee to start work on it.

Noted Author, Surgeon Dies

Eisenhower Sons Return to Bury Mother

Died Unexpectedly At the Age of 84; Funeral Rites Private

ABILENE, Kas., Sept. 12.—(AP)—The five sons of the nation's most famous mother were returning humbly to their boyhood home here today to pay final tribute to Mrs. Ida Stover Eisenhower, who died of a heart attack yesterday at the age of 84.

Her soldier son, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, was on his way from Washington by train, accompanied by his wife and another brother, Earl D. Eisenhower, of Chariot, Pa., a chemical engineer.

Two other sons, Milton S. Eisenhower, president of Kansas State College, and Arthur B. Eisenhower, a Kansas City banker, are here preparing arrangements for funeral services Friday afternoon. The fifth son, Edgar, of Tacoma, Wash., attorney, also was on his way here.

Residents of this central Kansas town prepared to follow family wishes for services marked with quiet dignity. Only members of the immediate family will attend rites at the home, but stores will close for an hour for the graveside services. She will be buried in the family plot in the cemetery here beside her husband David, who died in 1942.

Despite her advanced years, Mrs. Eisenhower's death came unexpectedly. She had been extremely active right up to her last hours and until two years ago drove her own car. Her chief interest was her family and her pride in her son, who became supreme allied commander in Europe, appeared no greater to her friends and neighbors than that in her four other sons.

She had lived in the same modest white frame house for half a century. It stands across the street from the elementary school where her sons received their early education.

Messages Of Sympathy

ABILENE, Kas., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Expressions of sympathy in the death of Mrs. Ida Stover Eisenhower were received today by members of her family from the president of the United States and from GIs.

Mrs. Eisenhower, mother of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, died yesterday at the age of 84.

Among the more than 200 telegrams was one from President Truman. Addressed to the five Eisenhower brothers, it read:

"I have heard with deep personal regret of the sorrow which has come to you in the loss of your dear mother. I can only offer you and those who mourn with you, this assurance of profound sympathy, in which Mrs. Truman joins."

Another message read: "Just a GI's sympathy, General." It was signed, "Didio."

Among other telegrams received by the family was one from MacKenzie King, prime minister of Canada.

"I have been much pained to learn of the passing of your mother," it read. "Please accept the expression of my very sincere sympathy in your bereavement."

Gen. John J. Pershing, hero of World War I, sent the following, addressed to General Eisenhower: "My sister and I extend to you and your brothers our profound sympathy."

Other telegrams came from Gov. and Mrs. Andrew Schoepel of Kansas, Gov. Edward Martin of Pennsylvania, and from many other friends of the family.

Resolution On Bombing

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—(AP)—A resolution of formal regret for the atomic bombing of the Japanese cities of Nagasaki and Hiroshima was presented today to the 55th triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

The Christian church should express penitence over such an act, said Bishop Elwood L. Haines, of Iowa, who presented the resolution to the House of Bishops. It was received without discussion and referred to the committee on social and international relations for action before the convention ends September 20.

After some debate the House of Bishops rejected a motion that the right of voting as members be withdrawn from retired bishops.
